

ABSTRACT

A system is disclosed which provides for local gathering and translation of information from a wide variety of sources of such information, wherein the translation presents the information in a format which can be received by a wide variety of different applications and end users, and effectively utilized by same.